NEW YORK HERKELD, MONDAY, APRIL 14, 1862.

SUNDAY, April 13, 1862. The importations of foreign dry goods at this port last week were less than for some weeks past; those of general merchandise were a very fair average. The princ	irpal iten	is of import were:

Dry Gooda	.2553.193	Tin	$119,405
Earthonware	40,640
Boda	26,847	Coffee
Hides	37,231	Rice	29,962
Guns	671,133	Sugar	118,154
Iron	48,799	Turpentine
Lead		Wool	54,888
Steel	47,103		1.0540

But for the importation of $571,133 worth of guns, and half a million worth of cotton, turpenand rice, in consequence of the war, the import movement for the week ending yesterday would have been comparatively light. The arti-cles which will best bear an increase of duty are, as usual, enumerated in the above table, and we hope this week to hear that Congress is prepared to make them yield an increased amount of revenue. We are taxing every article grown and manufactured in this country, including a large variety of articles possessing remarkable claims to exemption from taxation; it is only fair that foreign products should share the new ens imposed on the country by the war. It e plausibly urged that there should be a substantial increase of duties on those articles of British manufacture which have been made and sold by nities which have aided and assisted the rebellion. But for British aid, in the shape of guns, rifles and munitions of war, the rebels would never have been able to disturb the peace of this country and of the world for twelve months. It is expected that Congress will lay such duties on itish hardware, iron and lead, as will compel these rebel sympathizers to pay a fair contribu-tion to the Treasury of the United States for the privilege of trading with the nation they have labored so hard to destroy. Our exports of bullion continue large. They promise to equal the exports of 1857 and 1860. The following are the official tables of the trade of the port for the week and since January 1.

It is generally understood that the banks have ot been free sellers of their government stocks within a week. The supply of mercantile paper aving simultaneously fallen off, in consequence of be prevailing stagnation in business, it is expected hat the bank statement to be made up to-morrow stood at $124,477,484, which was a decrease of $544,146 from the week previous. This is really a very low figure for the bank discounts in this sity, and it would argue a remarkable diminution iness if a further decrease took place. Our aks would consult their own interest if, instead of selling any more of their government accurities, they lodged them with the Bank Superintendent at Shany, and drew fresh circulation, especially nes, twos and threes, which are greatly wanted hington, in Virginia, and in Kentucky and on the Mississippi. The bank expansion of cur-sency, from the best information that we can obmin, will amount by the 1st of June to $150,000,000 over and above the currency which was affoat on the 1st of March. Every five dollar note set float by government requires a fresh issue llars in smaller notes by the banks. it will be to the public interest that our New York city banks, which are conted honestly and are substantial institutions. ild issue as large a proportion as possible of the notes. If they hold back, there will be normous issues of small notes by country banks whose solvency and stability are, and must be, mat. ers of grave doubt. It is understood that the bank seposits will show an increase to-morrow, and that be specie average-which last week stood at 133,764,382, being an increase of $922,580 from the week previous-will likewise show an increase of at least $800,000, thus swelling the bank average to over $34,500,000. This is a very handsome eserve for our banks. How much of it belongs exclusively to their special depositors does not appear, however. The banks cannot legitimately pain specie at the present time. Every dollar added to their reserve must either be a special deposit of a purchase of coin. The heavy drain of gold for export should admonish the banks to seep themselves as strong as possible, in order to be prepared for all contingencies. It is quite evident that we shall send abroad this year as much gold as we receive, and as much besides as we ook from California in the year 1861.

The week closed on a very easy money market, rates being about one per cent lower than they were a week ago. Yesterday money was offered very freely on call at 6 per cent; bankers' accept-ances were quoted 5, and good mercantile names $ a 7. The advance in certificates of indebtedness and checks to 97 a 1/4, and the steady increase of deposits in the Sub-Treasury at 5 per cent, are unsistakable indications of the tendency of the money market to lower rates. In fact, we are just beginning, for the first time, to feel the effect of the paper money inflation about which so much has been said. The sixty millions of demand notes ssued under the act of August, 1861, produced no effect on the money market, because they only re-placed a poorer currency in the West, and added nothing to the actual value of money in circula-They filled a void, and nothing more. It is different with the new legal tender notes, which the government is paying out at the rate of swo millions a day or more, with the certificates of indebtedness, and with the currency which the banks of the interior are pouring out with such freedom; these are absolute additions to the stock of currency or money affoat in the country, and they naturally produce their first effect upon the New York money market. The banks, which see in the present condition of the country a rare opportunity to make money by in-treasing their circulation, the contractors who are receiving their millions from government, and the anters and others into whose hands the soldiers' pay eventually finds its way, are all seeking empinion of well informed persons that this current of capital must flow towards this city until the war ends, and that there must be such an accumulation sere as to cause the price of money to fall very low, and to lead to considerable speculation-These views are consistent with past experience. Heavy issues of paper money by governments have invariably led to these results: they have, in the first place, cheapened the price of money by mcreasing the supply; in the second place, they have caused an advance in the price of all articles of merchandise and property; and thirdly, they have caused an advance in the price of specie. If bese results have not yet been witnessed here, the reason is not that the laws of political economy and the teachings of experience are unseund, but simply that the issue thus far made of paper mosey has merely taken the place of other paper which has been withdrawn from circulation, and we are only now just beginning to feel the first slight effects of the new financial system.

Foreign exchange closed yesterday at 1123/ a 3/2 for bankers' bills on London, and 5.00 a 5.05 for 1400s. A few commercial bills are in market at the usual reduction from these rates. Gold fluctuated all last week between 101% a 102, clos 12 at 101%. The demand for gold for export con-tinues to be supplied by the Wall street speculators, who sell the precious metal short, and bor-row it from the banks for delivery. They calculate to make their profit by the interest on their sales, gold being, in the language of a leading op erator, the only high priced stock which pays no dividends. This speculation has thus far been the main obstacle to an advance in gold to a premium of 4 a 5 per cent. Whether it be in the power of speculators to defeat the operation of a general law of political economy remains to be seen. The law is perfectly clear that, when paper becomes a legal tender and is freely issued by government, gold must advance to a premium. In England during the bank suspension, the premium on gold fluctuated between 21/4 and 41 per cent, as is shown in the following table:-

the early part of last week, but became dull and tame towards the close. The victory at Island No. 10 produced quite an effect on the market, but the much more important victory at Pittsburg Landing had none at all. This seems to have been partly due to the government censorship of the press, which leads the public to distrust the news as published, and always to suspect that something is concealed from their knowledge. A vague uneasiness with regard to the Merrimac and the success of Major General McClellan's operations on the peninsula operates to check business The bear operators have availed themselves of this condition of affairs to put out their options with considerable freedom. So far as we can learn the buils rather congratulate themselves on the occurrence. They have been enabled to increase their line very considerably without outlay of capital, and if events justify public expectation they will reap all the greater reward for the present period of suspense. The issue of stock speculations at the present time mainly upon the success of our armies. If we win undisputed victories, and Secretary Stanton permits the news to be telegraphed in such shape as to command public confidence, stocks cannot but advance. If we are defeated, or if the news comes in such shape as to lead the public to infer that facts of importance are being concealed, stocks will fall. The natu ral tendency of the market-in view of the expansion of credit, the increase of paper money, and the almost certain success of the Union armies—is toward improvement. Attempts are made by the bears to use the accidental falling off in the railway receipts against the stocks of the Western roads. A few days will dispose of this bugbear. At this time last year the weather was clear and open. This season it is rainy and unfavorable. Hence for a week or two the roads cannot but fall off. Persons well informed seem satisfied that the season, as a whole, will show much larger profits than those of last year. The amount of breadstuffs to come forward is greater than usual and the rates of freight are higher than the ave-
